Nice President Marshall will open the annual baseball game between the army and Marine Corps this afternoon when he throws the first ball at 3 o'clock at the American League Park. The game is for the benefit of the wounded service men at St. Elizabeth's Hospital. The Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy will entertain box parties. The army will be represented by Gen. J. J. Pershing, Gen. William M. Weight, the acting chief of staff, Gen. Rogers, Gen. Lord and many others. The navy and the Marine Corps will be represented by Gen. Charles G. Long, as well as Admirals Benson, Cocks and Washington, Rear Admiral McDowell and Mr. Charles H. Boxer will be provided for wounded soldiers from Walter Reed Hospital, the Naval Hospital and St. Elizabeth's.

Mr. W. W. Griffin, Quartermaster Corps, is in general chairman of the arrangements.

The British Ambassador will deliver the oration at the commencement exercises of the George Washington University in the auditorium of the new Central High School this evening.

The Russian Ambassador and Mme. Bakmeteff will entertain at dinner Friday evening in compliment to the Secretary of State and Mrs. Bainbridge Colby.

The Minister from Poland and Princess Lubomirska will return to Washington tomorrow from Chicago, where they went last week following a brief visit to New York.

The Secretary of War and Mrs. Newton D. Baker, accompanied by the Secretary of the Navy, Mrs. Katherine Lowe and their two younger children, motored to Annapolis Saturday for the army and navy game.

Of widespread interest is the announcement of the engagement of Miss Augusta Christian Glass, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Carter Glass, to Robert M. Clannahan Allen of Roanoke, Va. Miss Glass attended her sister, Mrs. John Guernsey Boatwright, formerly Miss Mary Carter Glass, at her marriage which took place here November 1, 1919, at the Church of the Covenant, and was one of the most important events of the social season. Senator Glass was at that time Secretary of the Treasury. Miss Glass is now visiting in Roanoke. No date has been set for the wedding, but it will probably take place in the early fall. Mr. Allen is an architect and served as a lieutenant in the French army during the war with Germany.

John Barrett, director of the Pan American Union, and Col. William E. Fowler, have issued an invitation for a reception to be held tomorrow evening at 10 o'clock in the Astor gardens in the Pan American building. The chaperons will be Miss Mathew, wife of the Chilean Ambassador; Mrs. Wilbur Carr, Mrs. Claude Mayo and Mrs. Harold Walker. A similar reception for children will be held Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Mayne entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Montgomery Country Club in compliment to Mrs. John F. Rodgers, who is leaving today for York Harbor.

MRS. J. C. HUMPHREYS MARRIES R. U. STRONG

Mrs. Jean Carter Humphreys, of Warrenton, Oregon, and Robert U. Strong, of Plainfield, N. J., were married here yesterday by Judge Charles H. Mattingly.

Both are well known in Washington. Strong was for many years assistant to the Attorney General in the Philippine Islands. He was graduated in law at Yale University in 1919, and practiced in New York State. During the war he served overseas as a first lieutenant with the Eighty-second Division. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Strong, of Plainfield, N. J.

Mrs. Strong is well known in Warrenton and Washington. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cassius Carter, of Warrenton, Va.

Business Proposition.

The Herald Salesman's Club is a business proposition, planned solely for increasing the circulation of The Herald and obtaining additional permanent readers.

The only free credits that any member of The Herald Salesman's Club can obtain is 5,000 which goes with the nomination. All other credits are obtained on paid-in-advance subscriptions only.

If you prove to be the best subscription getter, you win the $6,000 home, or $6,000 in cash.

The $3,500 Standard "Eight" goes to the second best.

The $2,500 Jordan will be awarded to the third successful competitor.

The fourth high one at the finish will be given the $2,125 Sayers "Six." The fifth in line will be awarded the $1,750 Datsun.

The club member finishing sixth will receive the $1,000 Allen.

Seventh will be awarded with a $1,275 Maxwell.

Here is your choice: You can win any one of these seven magnificent awards in less than seven weeks of campaigning.

Certainly if some one would say to you, "I will pay you $100 a week for seven weeks," you would think it mighty good, but when we say to you, "The Herald only asks a little of your spare time in boosting for Washington's most progressive paper," you will think it a small compensation to win an extra prize of $2,500. You naturally realize this is a SELLER'S OPPORTUNITY, and one you should not let pass without making an unusual try to go over the top.

The best of it is, those who join the Salesman's Club are offered so much extra "city-time" in all their work that a cash commission that all member, where she will spend the summer months. Covers were laid for twenty-six.

Mrs. Morris Evans and her daughter, Miss Meta Evans, have returned from several weeks' visit in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Fielding Lewis Marshall of Georgetown, have moved into the Scott house, 1419 Twentieth street, which they recently purchased. Mrs. Marshall's sister, Mrs. Charles P. Stokes, of Richmond, Va., is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall.

Mrs. David P. Kalme and Miss Gladys Kalme spent last week in Philadelphia and attended the Devon horse show.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Fuller are spending several days in New York and are stopping at the Biltmore. Mr. Fuller will return Wednesday morning, but Mrs. Fuller will go to visit friends in Greenwich, Conn., for a week.

Mrs. John H. Smithwick and Miss Smithwick are visiting Mrs. Smithwick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Vereen, at Moultrie, Ga.

Mrs. M. S. Cohen and Mrs. A. Ottenberg entertained last evening in compliment to her mother, Mrs. B. E. Bernard, who celebrated her eightieth birthday anniversary.

The George Washington University Chapter of Pi Beta Phi will entertain at a senior breakfast this morning. Among other George Washington activities for today are the Delta Tau Delta annual voyage down the Potomac. Phi Sigma Kappa river ride, and Sigma Phi Epsilon river party.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis London, of Atlantic City, N. J., who have been stopping at the New Willard, were entertained at dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Gundersheimer.

FARES GO UP ON MD. LINES

W. R. E. Adds Cent to Each Zone Beginning at Midnight.

The four Maryland lines of the Washington Railway and Electric Company will raise fares one cent per zone, beginning 12 o'clock tonight. No action has been announced by the Interstate Commerce Commission since the company's application for fare increase to bring the revenues on a par with those in the District of Columbia.

Until the commission rules that a formal hearing be held on the application, which may be requested by any individual on proper application to the commission, the new fares will remain in force.

Comments on the lines of the Washington Railway and Electric Company will begin at midnight to pay eight cents cash or one token for each zone in Maryland. There are four zones in Maryland on the city and suburban line, one zone each on the Forest Glen, Bladensburg-Berwyn and Cabin John lines, and three zones on the Rockville line.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has taken no action on the complaint against the increase filed by Prof. F. P. Close, of Maryland State College, representing Berwyn Grange and College Park Improvement Association.

NURSE WHO WORKED WITH EDITH CAVELL, ENGLISH MARTYR, SPENDS HER FIRST DECORATION DAY IN THE UNITED STATES

By JACQUELINE VAN TIL.

Nurse Companion of Edith Cavell in Belgium.

New York, May 30. — You in America have a day you call Decoration Day, or Memorial Day, for special remembrance of heroes who died for their country.

On that day my thoughts will be in Belgium — in Brussels where Edith Cavell, English martyr nurse, was killed by the Germans, for aiding her countrymen.

As I look back on the years, I spent with Miss Cavell, remember her teachings, her bravery, the suffering, the smiles and tears, the horror of it all, Miss Cavell's work and her death seem like a dream to me. Here in the sunshine and happiness of America I cannot believe it is true. But deep in my heart is an ache that forbids me to forget one moment of it.

Everything in Belgium for me seems to date back to the day when the four long streams of German soldiers poured into Brussels. As the Germans swept forward in their mad rush for Paris they left behind them many wounded soldiers who had fought against them.

Told to Love Country.

It was then an organization was formed by the Princess de Croix, to care for them and try to get them out of the country. Shortly after this Miss Cavell called us together and told us to love our country. That was all.

It was not very long before the first two men who had escaped from the clutches of the Germans came to us. They had with them the passport card which was to identify them to us. They were received in the clinic, cared for, and then taken by Miss Cavell to a guide, who in turn took them to the border and safety in Holland. More than sixty times after this was repeated and more than 400 men were saved by Miss Cavell in this way.

Spies Came in Clinic.

Then came the events that led up to Miss Cavell's arrest and execution. Near the clinic was a cafe where some of the convalescent ones and workers at the clinic used to gather. It is there I am afraid, that something must have been overheard by one of the German spies.

Once there came to the clinic a soldier from Poland with the usual passport card. He only stayed one day, but we felt he was not what he said he was. And then another, Gaston Quelen, who stayed at the clinic one week, was given the customary escort through to Holland, and it was he who later returned to German headquarters and gave the information that led to Miss Cavell's arrest and execution.

Among others with whom Miss Cavell had acquaintance was Monsieur Baucq, a poor man with a family, who sometimes gave shelter to those who came to us. On July 13, 1915, the Germans came to the clinic and began to investigate.

And then on August 12 came the fateful day when Miss Cavell was arrested. Two autos and seven German soldiers came to the clinic and placed her under arrest. As she left she said: "Be good and be wise, my children, shall return."

Even then we had no idea of the seriousness of what was happening. Although we felt a great fear when Monsieur Baucq was also arrested. We were, of course, not allowed to see Miss Cavell, although once we sent flowers and she was allowed to reply to us. The letter was dated September 15, and one paragraph will remain in my mind forever.

"Everywhere in life we learn something new," she said. "And if you were in my place you would realize how precious is liberty and how careful we should be to have it. But we must all learn to love it. It is not enough to be a good nurse, but you should also be a Christian woman."

Martyr's Last Letter.

Then there was a lapse and we heard no more until October 19, when Miss Wilkins, the director, who took Miss Cavell's place, received for us Miss Cavell's last letter.

"This is a very sad moment for me to write you my last goodbye," she wrote. "I shall miss you very much. The 17th of September which had closed my eighth year as the director of our little clinic. I was so happy to be called to help in the work. The last of October, 1907, we had only four young pupils, and now there are many. I believe fifty or sixty, counting the trained nurses who have left the clinic."

"A little word yet. I must not speak. Because I loved my country with my whole heart I am here. I have seen in the past eight years, and now also, many mistakes which could have been avoided. Here and there a whispered word, though uttered without bad intention, has ruined good names, responsibilities and lives."

Powerless to Help.

There was nothing more after that letter, for on October 11 we learned that Nurse Cavell was to be executed. Miss Wilkins, the director, faintly when she heard the news. But we were powerless, although we hurried to the cardinal and Brand Whitlock. They, as the world now knows, were really powerless and on the next morning, frightened, and little group of nurses went to the prison hoping for a last sight of the one they loved so well. But we had not reckoned on the difference between German and Belgium time and we were too late, although we saw one machine winding its way to the rifle range where the execution was held. I thought I caught a glimpse of Miss Cavell in the auto, but I have never been sure.

We were later told that Miss Cavell was brave to the last and proudly insisted on being executed in the English way, sitting down with her feet tied together so that her position might not be undignified when she fell. And Monsieur Baucq had to watch the execution as he awaited a glimpse of Miss Cavell in the auto, but I have never been sure.

When we returned to the town we found there the German proclamation telling that the sentence had been executed. It read:

"Baucq and Cavell have been executed."

And such is the story of Edith Cavell—she who gave her all and more to help some mistreated and the world from the clutches of German imperialism.

Even then we had no idea of the seriousness of what was happening. Although we felt a great fear when Monsieur Baucq was also arrested. We were, of course, not allowed to see Miss Cavell, although once we sent flowers and she was allowed to reply to us.
